COLORI® Muzzles were yesterday. Colori is today!

Here at the top – and at the bottom – glue together the green parts.

With just three measurements to your perfect Colori®fit!

How to correctly measure your dog's head:

1. Cut out the measuring tape (see illustration on the right) along the dashed lines.

2. Stick the green-marked ends of the measuring tape together so they overlap.

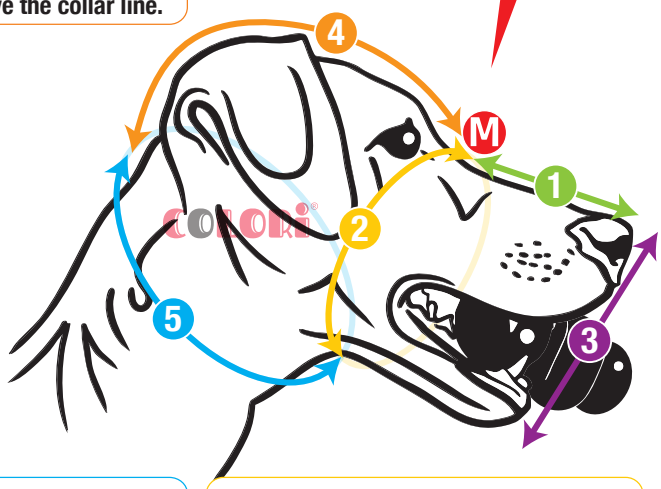
3. Measure your dog's head and muzzle as shown in the diagram at points 1–3 (6). Write all measurements on your order form. Done!
The key measurements for finding the right model are the muzzle length (1) and muzzle circumference (2+3). Measurements 4 and 5 serve as additional reference points.

Please note: The measurements you take — and the dimensions listed for our Colori models — always refer to inner measurements!
You can find a detailed measuring guide in our online shop and on Instagram.

Colori® 2.0 Small to medium-sized dogs

Optimal measuring point:
ca. 1–3 cm (depending on muzzle length) below the eyes. For short muzzles: ca. 1–2 cm, for long muzzles: ca. 2–3 cm.

4 FOREHEAD STRAP:
Measure from point M to the back of the head, slightly above the collar line.



1 MUZZLE LENGTH:
Step 1: Measure from measuring point M to the tip of the nose. Then subtract about 1–2 cm — this gives you the required Colori® length. Applies from 5 cm nose length.
Step 2: Note down the measurement and choose your Colori® model.

3 MUZZLE CIRCUMFERENCE (PANTING WIDTH):
Option 1: Measure the circumference when your dog is panting — from the tip of the nose around the chin. Note down the value and compare all three measurements with the Colori® size chart to choose the right model.

Option 2 (with simulation aid):
To simulate panting, carefully use an object such as a ball or Kong. Measure the circumference from the nose tip around the chin. Note the value and compare it with the Colori® size chart to select the correct model.
Note: All Colori® measurements refer to inner dimensions.

5 NECK CIRCUMFERENCE:
Measure around the neck as if fitting a collar, but slightly higher up toward the ears (see illustration 1).

Please note that every dog's head shape is different, and all measurements serve as guidelines to help you find the best-fitting model.

2 MUZZLE CIRCUMFERENCE:
Now measure the circumference of your dog's muzzle. Start again at point M. Your dog should be relaxed, with the mouth only slightly open and the tongue in its natural position.

Our measurement guide serves as an orientation. The stated measurements are approximate values. Due to varying nose lengths, deviations cannot be ruled out.
